Drazan Campaign Releases Scathing Ad Exposing Tina Kotek's Record of Failure

WILSONVILLE, Ore. – Christine Drazan's campaign for governor today released a new television ad ripping into Tina Kotek's disastrous record with just over a week remaining until Election Day.

The ad puts Kotek's failures front and center: massive tax increases, Oregon schools ranked 48th in the nation, utility rates up 60%, the nation's most expensive housing, scandals plaguing her administration, and Oregon's unemployment rate reaching the highest in the country.

"Tina Kotek has had four years to prove she can do this job, and instead, she's run Oregon into the ground. Higher taxes, skyrocketing utility bills, failing schools, and one scandal after another are the legacy of her administration," said Trey Rosser, Drazan campaign strategist. "She's had her chance, and she's blown it. Christine Drazan is ready to clean up the mess Kotek has made, and her message is resonating with Oregonians across the political spectrum who are ready for a governor who will finally deliver the results they deserve."
